

Updates #2

Updates podcast #2

- This is our second updates podcast
 - Don't worry, we'll have a fresh one coming out within a couple of days, hopefully
- We are changing our name to miniViewSF, and in honor of this new title, or because of it, I'll let you decide,
 - We have recently purchased a paid domain. You can find us at www.miniviewsf.com
 - That site will be up in a couple of days, or however long it takes to set up before they let me use it
- I hate to tell you this, but my podcast is changing RSS feeds... again
 - The new feed will be posted on the new web site, miniviewsf.com, and will appear on iTunes shortly
 - The purpose for this new feed is that this time, I registered with FeedBurner
 - This was done only to find out how many subscribers I have and will have to my podcast
 - Once again, I apologise for the changed feed. I can assure you that this will probably be the last time such an event occurs
- We haven't yet reached the 5 podcasts mark, as I've been quite busy, especially securing our new domain name
 - I wanted to have one per week, and we'll see if we can get some kind of regularity after this transition
- Once again, I apologise for any trouble I may have caused, forcing you to update your feeds.
- I remind you that our new podcast, part of a three or more part series entitled "What's in my Menu Bar" will be here very shortly.
- In the meantime, I hope you don't mind waiting until I get my new domain up and running, and let me leave some time for my subscribers to switch their feeds.